Guidelines to Code Rule (ICR) 59 Compulsory Workplace Safety and Loss Prevention Program

Overview

The Workplace Safety and Loss Prevention Program was created to reduce workplace injuries and lower workers' compensation costs for employers. You can find specific details on the Program in Section 134 of the Workers' Compensation Law and the Department of Labor's (DOL) Industrial Code Rule (ICR) 59. You can access both the statute and the regulations from the DOL website at www.labor.ny.gov/WSLPIP.html

The Notification

The program is required for all employers whose most recent:

- Annual payroll is in excess of $800,000 and
- Experience rating exceeds 1.20.

If you meet these criteria, the New York State Compensation Insurance Rating Board (NYCIRB) will notify you. They send out notices quarterly. NYCIRB also notifies DOL, so we can monitor compliance. A notice is effective on the day you receive it in the mail. Any employer who receives a notice MUST participate. Once you receive a notice, you are subject to this program, even after your experience rating is reduced.

The Consultation

If you receive a notice, you must schedule a consultation and evaluation. The consultation will include:

- A review of your safety procedures,
- An assessment of the employer's compliance with the requirements of ICR 59, and
- A hazard survey of the workplace.

A consultant certified by the DOL must perform the consultation. You can find a list of certified consultants on the DOL website at <https://applications.labor.ny.gov/WSLPIPSpecialistSearch/specialistSearch.faces>

Getting a Consultation

Any consultant certified by the DOL may provide the needed services. You should review the list of consultants posted on the DOL website. Use someone who is currently certified. Contact consultants directly for availability and fees. Please note that consultants charge fees set by their organizations. The DOL does not control the fees charged by private consultants.

"SAVING LIVES AND BOTTOM LINES"

Once you have scheduled a consultation, you must send notice to the DOL and your workers' compensation insurer. You are required to provide:

- Dates the consultation is set to start and finish,
- Name and address of the person(s) performing the consultation service, and
- The consultant's certification number.

Compliance

The consultant will give you a written evaluation at the end of the consultation. You must send a copy of the evaluation to both the DOL and your insurance carrier. You must include a statement that describes how you will take the remedial action recommended in the evaluation. Specifically:

- Who will do it, and
- How and when they will do it.

After remediation is completed, your insurer will conduct an inspection. They will make sure that you have complied with the evaluation's recommendations. The insurer will give a copy of their findings to you and the DOL. If you disagree with the insurer's findings, you may appeal to the DOL.

General Guidelines

You should contact your workers' compensation insurer after you get the notice from NYCIRB. In all cases, a representative from your insurer must do a re-inspection to make sure you comply with ICR 59. You should keep your insurer up to date about what you are doing to comply.

You or the consultant should plot a compliance timeline. This will help you to understand the deadlines you have to meet. See the sample timeline on page 4.

A consultation should only address areas where you have primary control over the workplace.

Penalties

If you do not set up a consultation, your insurer will charge a penalty. Your insurer will also charge a penalty if you do not comply with the recommendations in the evaluation report within the deadlines. There also may be a penalty for failing to meet deadlines. The penalty is a 5% surcharge to your manual rate premium for the next policy period. The surcharge is cumulative. If you continue non-compliance, the insurer will charge an additional 5% each year. Penalties will accrue until you comply with ICR 59.

Once you are subject to this program, you must continue to comply with ICR 59 indefinitely.

Appeal Process

When an insurer re-inspects a worksite, they may determine that it is not in compliance. If you disagree, you may appeal. You must file an appeal with the DOL within 30 days of getting the insurer's re-inspection report. You must send a copy of the appeal to the insurer. To resolve an appeal, the DOL will inspect the workplace. DOL will then issue a written decision which is binding on all parties.

The Process

When you receive a notice from NYCIRB:

Step 1: Immediately notify your workers' compensation insurer.

Step 2: Within 30 days of the notice, make arrangements to hire a consultant. You may hire a private consultant or the insurer's consultant, if they provide that service.

Step 3: Within 10 days (40 days from notice), notify the DOL and your insurer, in writing, of the following:

- The date that the consultation is scheduled to begin,
- The date that the consultation is scheduled to be completed (no more than 75 days from the date you got the notice),
- The name and address of the consultant you hired, and
- The certification number of the consultant.

Step 4: Within 75 days of the notice, the certified consultant must complete the consultation and provide the employer with a copy of the report.

Step 5: Within 30 days of receiving the consultant's evaluation report, send a copy to the DOL and your insurer. You must include a letter describing how you will go about complying with the recommendations in the report. You must include the names of any service providers that you will hire to help you get into compliance.

Step 6: You have 6 months from the date you get the evaluation report to comply with all recommendations.

Step 7: Within 60 days of complying with all recommendations, notify your workers' compensation insurer to re-inspect the workplace. The insurer will verify compliance with the consultant's report.

Step 8: Your insurer must issue a re-inspection report and send it to you and the DOL. You must maintain the required elements of the Workplace Safety and Loss Prevention Program.
